

i oppose the centralization of the communication infrastructure by allowing media companies to control/own more than the current numerical limit. if they are allowed to own more stations or media outlets, we will continue to get lowest denominator programming or vanilla flavored (non controversial, one sided) news (as in no one covers this story). is vanilla is going to be our future, so will we have to seek foriegn (canada, bbc)programming. this agency reminds me of the FRC. both the FCC and the FRC have an irrevelance to promote the common good. the consumer no longer has any recourse when companies/sellers are only motivated by greed and fraud. the republicans dupped us into believing that they have freedom(from tyranny), values and fair play on their side.
